August 2–6, 2004, Graz, Austria

Second Summer Academy of Dermatopathology

The second Summer Academy of Dermatopathology will be held in Graz on August 2–6, 2004. During five full days of dermatopathology, hundreds of sections will be reviewed with the aid of a video-microscope and projection of digitized clinical pictures. The course will focus on melanocytic tumors, cutaneous lymphoproliferative disorders, and clinicopathologic correlation of neoplastic and inflammatory skin conditions. Specimens brought by participants will be reviewed and discussed in two special sessions. The course is limited to the first 30 registrants. April 6–8, 2006, Naples, Italy

1st Congress of the International Dermoscopy Society

The recently founded International Dermoscopy Society organizes a meeting designed for all colleagues interested in the diagnosis and management of pigmented skin lesions. Special emphasis is given on guidelines for management, standardization of reports and, particularly, on the development of machine vision in dermoscopy. In addition, seminars in discussion format and half-day workshops with special emphasis on pertinent issues in dermoscopy will be carried out.
